

US Army Health Clinic - Wuerzburg Activation and Assumption of Command

Article by: CPT Scott Preusker, WMEDDAC PAO

Colonel Dallas Homas, Wuerzburg Medical Activity Commander, activated the US Army Health Clinic – Wuerzburg and appointed Major Michael Cohen, 37, from Langhorne, Pennsylvania as the US Army Health Clinic – Wuerzburg Commander on Monday the 30th of October. Homas said, “Mike is an exceptional Soldier and Health Care provider, and will serve the community and its Soldiers well.”

Cohen attended Washington University in St. Louis for his undergraduate work before graduating from the Philadelphia College of Osteopathic Medicine in 1998. His previous assignment was with the 67th Combat Support Hospital as the Chief of Primary Care. “I’m excited for the opportunity and the challenges that lie ahead during Army European Transformation, and thankful for all the work that people did to make this command happen,” said Cohen after the ceremony.

Staff Sergeant Jeffery Johnson, 26, from South Williamson, Kentucky assumed responsibility for the US Army Health Clinic – Wuerzburg as the Non-Commissioned Officer in Charge of the daily operations and the welfare of the Soldiers in the unit. “This is exciting because NCOICs come into positions that are already there, I get to step into and create this position,” said Johnson. Johnson’s previous assignment was with the 67th Combat Support Hospital as the assistant NCOIC of the emergency room.
